PREFACE.

IN submitting the following Treatise on Draughts to the consideration of the public, I do not feel as if any elaborate apology were necessary.

With regard to the game itself all who are in the least familiar with it, will at once acknowledge its peculiar adaptation, not only as a game which requires great self-reliance and patient investigation, but which may be regarded with equal consistency as a domestic amusement. While it requires the profound calculation of the mind to understand and appreciate its merits; the simplicity of its rules is such that one of moderate capacity may acquire with readiness and ease a knowledge of the game, sufficient to stimulate and induce the learner to acquire a still greater proficiency.

The pupil will discover that there is ample scope for the exercise of the most critical powers of the mind as well as furnishing a pleasing excitement to the most unpracticed player. He will also learn that the faculties requisite to cope successfully with others, who have had longer experience in the beautiful varieties of the game, are the unflinching habits of self-investigation and patience; and that to play well he must use the greatest caution, the most careful scrutiny, as well as the constant exercise of his memory.

It is a game not only deserving encouragement as peculiarly if not exclusively adapted to the intellectual research of manhood, but is with equal propriety consistent with female delicacy. It can afford the female mind a congenial pastime as a game peaceful and innocent.

It is impossible to conceive that this curious game is made up of chance as long as there is ample scope for the exercise of the scientific and reasoning capacities of the mind. Did its success depend upon chance, it would not answer the purpose of a mental recreation, and all who are acquainted with its complex and varied movements will admit that such is the end it subserves. In a moral and intellectual point of view, it is not a game in the least calculated to encourage gambling, as it is evident that superior skill will always command success, and the most ignorant of its complex movements have too much sense to hazard their fortunes when their loss must be inevitable. It clearly and intelligibly admonishes men not to place their means at such an insecure risk.

This work was unexpectedly commenced to comply with the request of numerous friends ; consequently many of the games are put forth entirely from memory, and I do not expect all to be exempt from errors. Criticism is invited so that any errors discovered may be corrected in future editions. Many of the games will be found familiar and easy to the old experienced player but at the same time very instructive to the pupil. The trunks of Anderson's game were adopted at the request of the leading players so that the starting point would be the same in each work. The arrangement or classification of the games is also the same as in Anderson's second edition. In every other work of the kind the modes adopted are not only very perplexing to the unskilled learner, but really tedious to practical players who have with unequalled and wonderful facility acquired many accurate ideas of the game from that Treatise.

The pupil will find the Theory of the Move and its Changes practically explained and illustrated with diagrams so as to be readily understood.

The collection of Critical Positions and End Games will be found practical and instructive.

On the last two pages will be found a list of Draught works chronologically arranged.

I take this opportunity of returning sincere thanks to my friends for their contributions of games and Positions, for which it will be found they are given due credit.

In concluding his remarks on the game, the author may be allowed to say that he has availed himself of everything at his command of interest in the game, to make this volume beneficial to those who are anxious to acquire a knowledge of it. That throughout, he has been animated by a sincere love of the science, to which he has invariably sacrificed every selfish consideration. His object has ever been to diffuse a knowledge of this most interesting game. Hoping then, that the spirit in which this new publication is issued will be appreciated, he leaves it with the public to pronounce a verdict on its merits, with the assured conviction that the award, whether answerable or not to his sanguine and cherished expectations, will be just.

BUFFALO, Jan. 1860.

LAWS OF THE GAME.

1. The standard board must be of light and dark squares, not less than fourteen inches nor more than fifteen inches across the squares.

2. The standard men, technically described as White and Black, must be light and dark (say White and Red or White and Black,) turned and round, not less than one inch, nor more than one and one-eighth inches in diameter.

3. The board shall be placed so that the bottom corner square on the left hand shall be black.

4. The men shall be placed on the black squares.

5. The Black men shall be invariably placed upon the real or supposed first twelve squares of the board ; the White upon the last twelve squares.

6. Each player shall play alternately with White and Black men, and lots shall be cast for the color only once, viz. : at the commencement of a match, the winner to have the choice of taking Black or White.

7. The first play must be invariably made by the person, having the Black men, and alternately till the end of the match.

8. TIME.—At the end of five minutes, (if the play has not been previously made) time must be called by the person appointed for the purpose, in a distinct manner, and if the play be not completed on the expiration of another minute, the game shall be adjudged to be lost through improper delay.

9. When there is only one way of taking one or more pieces, time shall be called at the end of ONE MINUTE, and if the play be not completed on the expiration of another minute, the game shall be adjudged to be lost through improper delay.

10. After the first move has been made, if either player arrange any piece, without giving intimation to his opponent, he shall forfeit the game; but, if it is his turn to play, he may avoid the penalty by playing that piece, if possible.

11. After the pieces have been arranged, if the person whose turn it is to play, touch one he must either play it or forfeit the game. When the piece is not playable, he forfeits according to the preceding law.

12. If any part of a playable piece is played over an angle of the square on which it is stationed, the play must be completed in that direction.

13. A capturing play, as well as an ordinary one, is completed whenever the hand has been withdrawn from the piece played, even although one or more pieces should have been taken.

14. The Huff or Blow, is to remove from the board, before one plays his own piece, any one of the adverse pieces that might or should have taken. But the Huff or Blow never constitutes a play.

15. The player has the power either to Huff, compel the capture, or let the piece remain on the board, as he thinks proper.

16. When a man first reaches any of the squares on the opposite extreme line of the board it becomes a King, and can be moved backward or forward as the limits of the board permit, though not in the same play, and must be crowned (by placing a man on the top of it) by the opponent; if he neglect to do so, and play, any such play shall be put back until the man be crowned.

17. Either player making a false or improper move, shall instantly forfeit the game to his opponent, without another move being made.

18. When taking, if either player remove one of his own pieces, he cannot replace it; but his opponent can either play or insist on his replacing it.

19. A Draw is, when neither of the players can force a win: when one of the sides appears stronger than the other, the stronger party is required to complete the win, or show at least a decided advantage over his opponent within forty of his own moves—to be counted from the point at which notice was given;—failing in which, he must relinquish the game as a Draw.

20. Anything which may tend either to annoy or distract the attention of the player, is strictly forbidden; such as making signs or sounds, pointing or hovering over the board, unnecessarily delaying to move a piece touched, or smoking. Any principal so acting, after having been warned of the consequence, and requested to desist, shall forfeit the game.

21. While a game is pending, neither player is permitted to leave the room without giving a sufficient reason, or receiving the other's consent, or that of the company.

22. Either player committing a breach of any of these laws, must submit to the penalty, and his opponent is equally bound to exact the same.

23. Any spectator giving warning by sign, sound or remark, on any of the games, whether played or pending, shall be expelled from the room during the match.

24. Should any dispute occur, not satisfactorily determined by the preceding laws, a written statement of facts must be sent to a disinterested arbiter, having a knowledge of the game, whose decision shall be final.

25. A match must consist of an even number of games, so that each player will have the first move the same number of times.

INSTRUCTIONS.

The Game is played on a Board of sixty-four squares of alternate colors, and with twenty-four pieces, called men, of adverse colors. It is played by two persons, placed opposite each other; the one, having the twelve Red or Black pieces, is said to be playing the first side, and the other, having the twelve White, to be playing the second side.

The final object of each player may be thus briefly stated: the one endeavors to confine the pieces of the other in situations where they cannot be played, or both to capture and fix, so that there may be none that can be played, and the person whose side is brought to this state, loses the game.

A MAN can be played only forwards; a KING can be played both backwards and forwards; and both kinds must be invariably played along the corners or angles of the squares, in capturing as well as in ordinary plays. But the power and progress of each kind being fully illustrated in the following Games and Critical Positions, it is quite unnecessary to add more on this point.

The first thing we desire of the student is to read over carefully the laws of the Game, and to play at all times in accordance with them; the best players invariably do so. We would next recommend him at once to begin with a Board and men of the kind agreed upon in the Laws. Those of real or imitation Rose and Satin or Ebony and Maple woods, are best and most generally used.

The Board and men being placed (see 3rd and 4th Laws), when you wish to learn the first side of any of the games, take the Black men next you, and refer to the numbers on the 1st Diagram, Page 10. But, when learning the second side, take the White men next you, and refer to the numbers on the 2nd Diagram, Page 11. You should have a representation of these two figured Diagrams on a small card ; it is much preferable to the usual method of affixing the numbers to the squares, recommended by some ; and a little practice in this way, with the card, will shortly enable you to dispense altogether with any such aid.

You should at first learn one or two variations (for first or second side) of every game in this work, and try to keep your opponent in those you have examined ; but the moment he leaves off these, exercise your judgment, not your memory. You can afterwards examine at your leisure those games to which you have observed him to be partial.

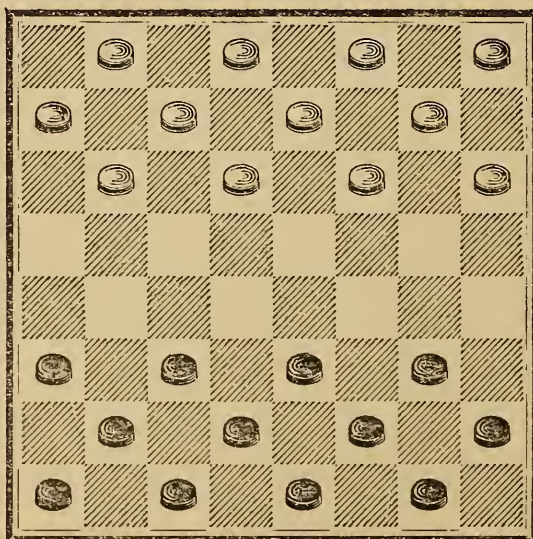

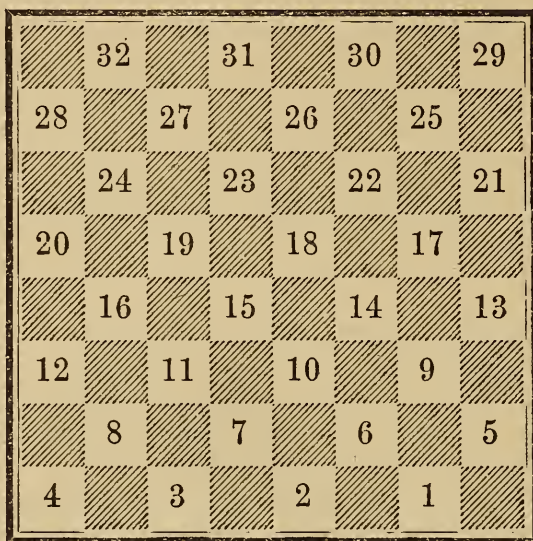

Remember there must be a motive for every move ; the perpetually recurring question should therefore be, what will be the result of this one, that one, etc.

Apply, then, that important question at every stage of the game, and answer it by calculating the result of every playable move at the stage in question. After a few weeks perseverance in this discipline, you will, if possessed of tolerable memory, become an expert player, and will shortly be able to cope with players of high standing.

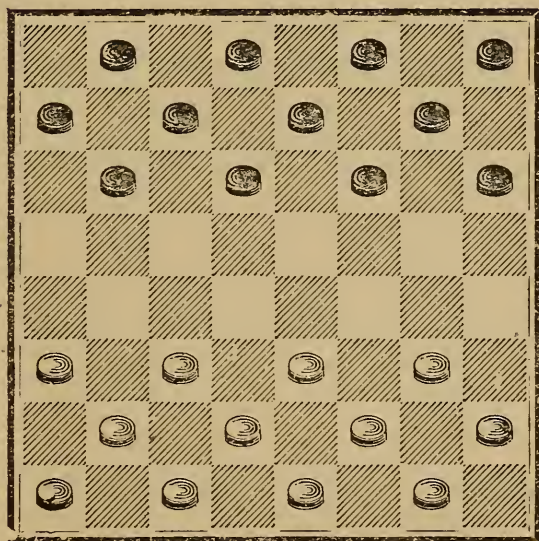

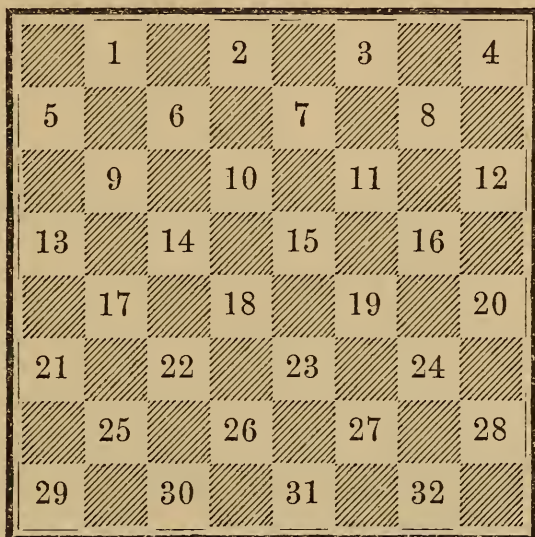

In the following Games, the left side numbers indicate the square you play from ; that on the right, the one you play to ;—thus, 11 15, signifies —“play from 11 to 15 ” The variations are numbered in natural succession, at the top of the page, on a line with the word GAME ; and the numbers that refer to them follow each other in succession down along the columns ; thus, 1 leads to variation 1st, 2 leads to 2nd ; and so on with the rest.

The Brace, when used, has its central point to the move at which variations occur. The letters refer only to variations in the same column.

The games formed by an odd number of moves refer to the first side, while those formed by an even number refer to the second. For example, if one says that he played the Ayrshire Lassie, Defiance, Cross, Single Corner or Second Double Corner against his opponent, we may at once understand that he played the second side of these games.

THE THEORY OF THE MOVE

AND ITS CHANGES,

PRACTICALLY EXPLAINED AND ILLUSTRATED

WITH DIAGRAMS.

THE MOVE.

To have the move, signifies, the occupying of that position on the Board, which, in playing piece against piece, backward or forward, without regard to the others, till only one square intervene between the pieces in each pair, will eventually cause the player who occupies that position to have the last play.

CALCULATION OF THE MOVE.

For convenience the squares of the Board are divided into two systems of four columns each :

The columns of one system being those reckoned downward from squares numbered (1, 2, 3, 4 :) See diagram, page 11.

The column of the other system being those reckoned upward from the squares numbered (29, 30, 31, 32.)

The squares (1 9 17 25) (2 10 18 26) (3 11 19 27) (4 12 20 28) being the columns of one system ;

The squares (29 21 13 5) (30 22 14 6) (31 23 15 7) (32 24 16 8) being the columns of the other system.

The columns of each system being situated alternately between those of the other, it is evident that one system is the reverse of the other.

When the two players have an equal number of pieces, it is obvious that the total number of pieces must always be even.

Now as an even number can only be divided into two even or two odd numbers, it is clear that if the pieces be counted in each of the two systems separately, the numbers will in the two cases be both even or both odd.

In the course of the play each move will be out of one system into the other, and will therefore make one system count one more, and the other one less; so that if both systems were before odd, they will now be both even, and after another move they will again be both odd, and so on alternately according to the player whose turn it is to play.

To find whether you have the move when it is your turn to play, apply the following

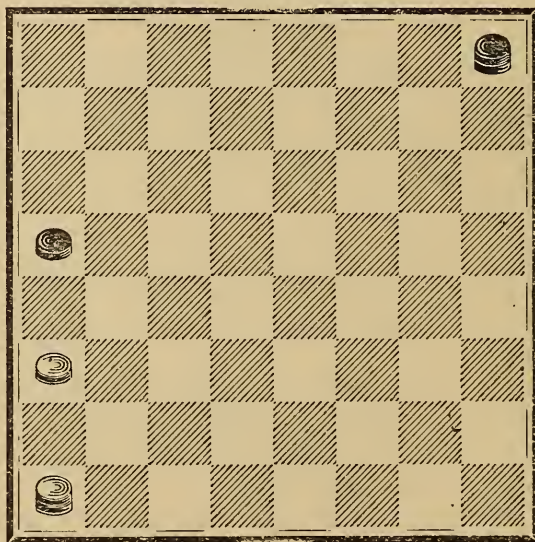

R U L E.

Add together all the pieces both Black and White in either system of squares, and if their sum is odd you have the move, but if even, your opponent has the move.

To illustrate take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 1.

BLACK.

WHITE.

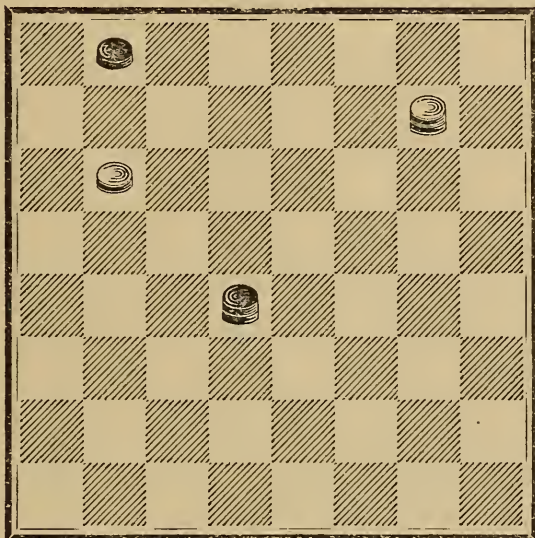

You play White first and have the move, because either system contains an odd number of pieces. One contains one, the other three.

To have the move is often an advantage, though to have it in some cases may occasion the loss of the game.

Take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 2.

BLACK.

WHITE.

You play White first and have the move, but lose the game, by Black forcing your man on 9 into 5 (a confined position.) Then the Black King has the move of your King, and wins ; though you have the move when all the pieces are taken into account.

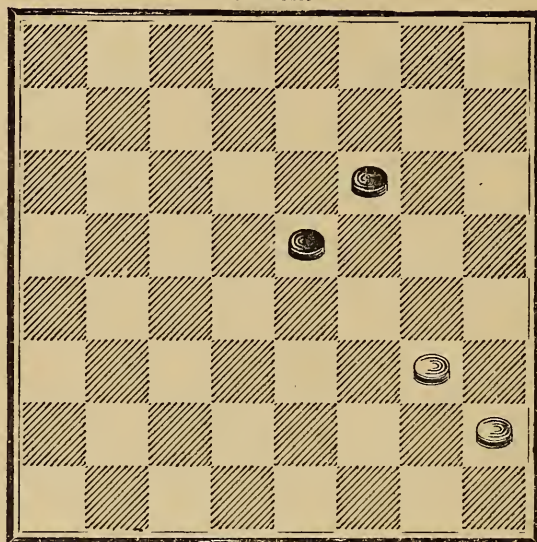

An exchange usually changes the move ; consequently, when you wish to obtain the move, make such an exchange as will change it.

Take the following:

ILLUSTRATION No. 3.

BLACK.

WHITE.

You play White first and have not the move. Play 24 19. Black takes 15 24, you take 28 19 and gain the move.

In every single exchange of one for one when only one of the capturing pieces remains on the Board, the move is changed.

To find what kind of exchanges do, or do not change the move, apply the following rules.

R U L E 1st

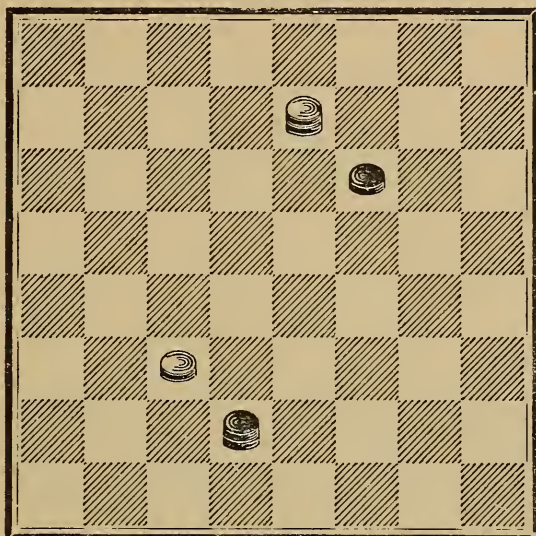

When the sum of the capturing pieces is even and in reverse systems and the captured pieces are odd on each side, the move is changed, but if the capturing pieces are in the same system, the move is not changed.

NOTE.—You must apply the rule at the squares the pieces capture, and are captured from.

Take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 4.

BLACK.

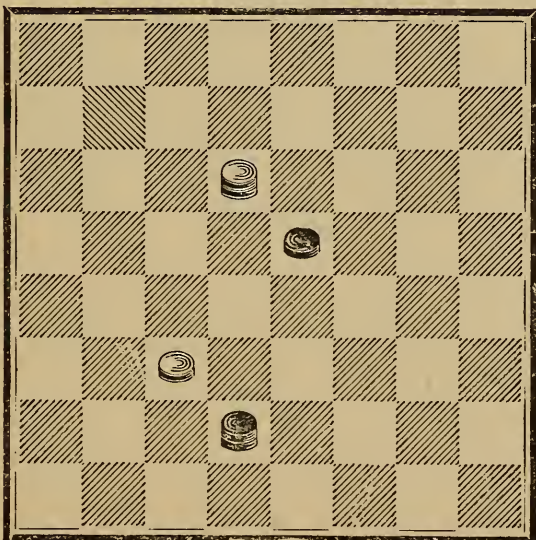

WHITE.

You play White first and have not the move. Take 7 16, Black takes 26 17, and you gain the move because the capturing piece on 7 is in reverse system to the capturing piece on 26. Take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 5.

BLACK.

WHITE.

You play White first and have not the move. Take 10 19, and Black takes 26 17 and this exchange does not change the move, because the capturing piece on 10 is in the same system as the capturing piece on 26.

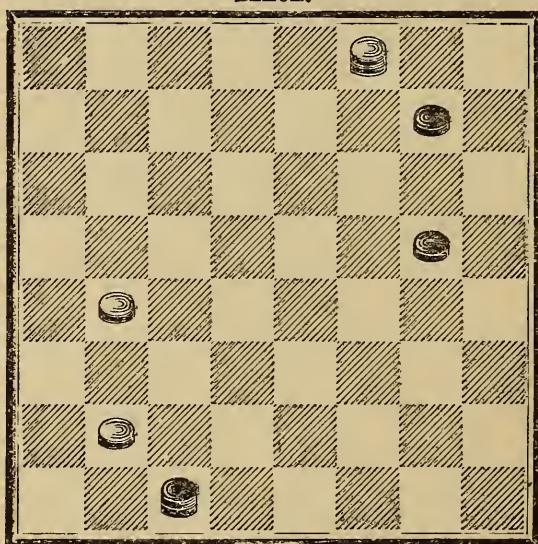

R U L E 2nd.

When the sum of the capturing pieces is even and the captured pieces are even on each side, without regard to the systems the capturing pieces occupy, the move is not changed.

Take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 6.

BLACK.

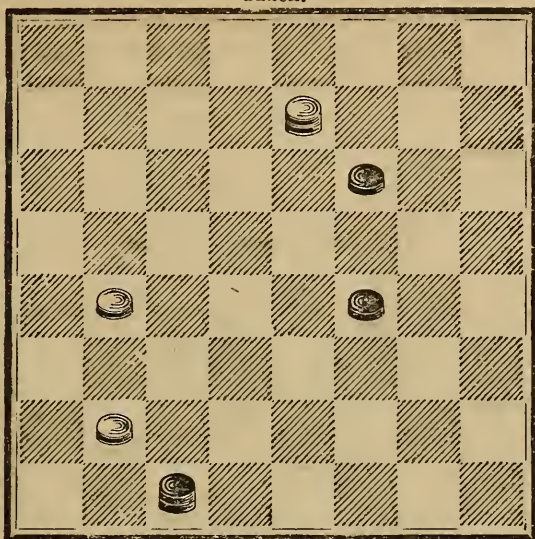

WHITE.

You play White first and have the move. Take 3 19, Black takes 30 14, and you retain the move.

Take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 7.

BLACK.

WHITE.

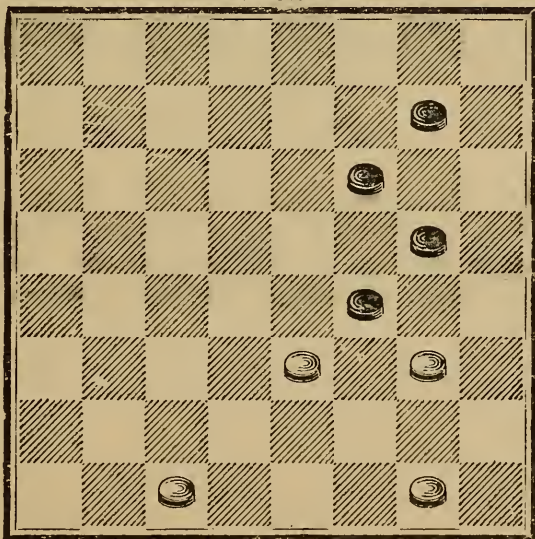

You play White first and you have not the move. Take 7 23, Black takes 30 14 and this exchange does not change the move.

RULE 3rd.

When the sum of the capturing pieces is odd and the captured pieces are even in each system, the move is changed, but if the captured pieces are odd the move is not changed. Take the following:

ILLUSTRATION No. 8.

BLACK.

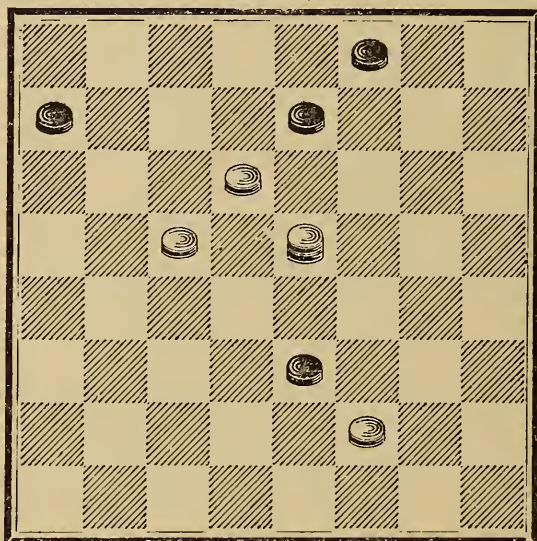

WHITE.

You play White first and have not the move. Take 24 15, Black takes 11 27, you take 32 23 and gain the move, because the sum of the capturing pieces on 24 11 and 32 is odd and the captured pieces on 24 and 23 of one system and 11 and 19 of the other system are even in each.

Take the following :

ILLUSTRATION No. 9.

BLACK.

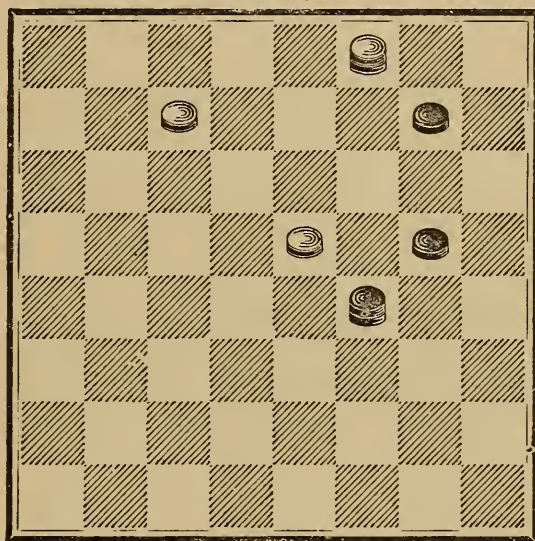

WHITE.

You play White first and have the move. Take 27 18, Black plays 5 9, you take 14 5, Black takes 7 23 and you retain the move, because the sum of capturing pieces on 27, 14, and 7 is odd and the pieces taken from squares 23 of one system and from 9 10 and 18 of the other system are odd in each system.

Take the following .

ILLUSTRATION No. 10.

BLACK.

WHITE.

You play White first and have not the move. Take 3 12, Black takes 19 1, you take 12 19 and gain the move, because your King on 3 captures from that square and Black King captures from 19 and your King again captures from 12 making in all three capturing pieces ; and the captured pieces being even in each system, the move is changed as shown in Illustration No. 8.

NEW NOTATIONS.

We give three different modes of numbering the Board, in each of which one system is composed of even numbers and the other of odd. As the old method answers every purpose we retained it to conform with all other works on the game.

PREFIXING SIGNS TO THE VARIATIONS.

The variations of the following games might have useful signs prefixed to them. Each of these signs to be placed immediately before the figure indicating the number of any variation terminating in a loss, and also to be repeated at the head of the column containing the play on said variation.

The sign + (plus) to be used when Black plays a losing move and the sign > to be used to denote that Black has lost before and to be prefixed only to variations arising at a subsequent stage after the losing move has been made. The sign for White to be different and to consist of the sign — (minus) to point out the losing move and the sign < to mark subsequent variations after the losing move has been made.

The other moves not marked with any of these signs lead to variations terminating in draws, which by the mere absence of these signs are rendered sufficiently apparent at the first glance.

It will also be found very convenient for reference, to mark at the head or foot of each variation the variation or variations from which it arises.

DRAUGHT TREATISES.

This game has by several of the writers upon it been held to have preceded Chess of which it is supposed to be the root or source. In "M'Angus', Savage Life and Scenes" it is stated that Draughts is played by the savage tribes of New Zealand under the name of E'mu, and it does not seem possible they could have derived their knowledge of it from any other people.

Chess, according to Sir William Jones, dates some four thousand years back; if Draughts anticipated it, then, upon the principle that 'age is honorable,' the recreation is one of no mean pretensions.

We have some evidence of the estimation in which the game has been held in various countries by the publication of the following works on the subject, the first of which it will be seen was published over three centuries since.
